

Boxtel energieneutraal in 2030 – Generation.Energy

The ambition of the Boxtel city council is to be energy neutral by 2030. This research project investigated what the current energy consumption is and how this energy consumption will develop until 2030. This information was the input for two workshops that examined suitable savings options and possibilities for sustainable energy generation together with the local people of Boxtel.

To stimulate the discussion, three spatial scenarios were sketched that contrast sharply with each other to show the effect of different spatial choices. These visions were translated into visualizations that provide insight into the local effects. By translating the technical discussion points into understandable images, we make the discussion about what fits and what is possible accessible to a large audience. This creates a supported strategy as the basis for further implementation.

The radically different visions provided the municipality with a tool that can be elaborated into a spatial plan.
